

Your dental service can provide excellent benefits to your patients, clients, and even your bottom line. However, since most veterinary dental patients do not show obvious signs of their pain and discomfort, client compliance can be difficult to obtain. Further, many dental diseases remain undiagnosed or undertreated even when the pet is actually presented for the dental procedure. Dr. Niemiec will use his years of experience in veterinary dentistry to help veterinary staff convince their pet parents to accept their dental recommendations. In addition, he will discuss simple techniques and minor equipment needs to greatly expand your practice.
